

"Cinematic but aimless—stunning visuals obscured by zero hierarchy, missing CTA, and zero conversion intent for Zero Grid."

CLIENT / CAMPAIGN

zero grid

INDUSTRY

Fashion & apparel

MODEL

Claude Haiku 4.5

PLATFORM

Landing page

PASS THRESHOLD

65/100

DATE

09/04/2026

No Fluff. Just Science.

Pre-flight creative analysis powered by behavioural science

CREATIVE

DIMENSION SCORES

Visual Hierarchy28

The silhouetted figure dominates center-frame with no contrast hierarchy. No headline, logo, or call-to-action anchor visual flow. The eye lands on

Clarity & Readability18

No visible text, brand markers, or messaging hierarchy. Viewers cannot immediately identify the brand, product, or value proposition. Unreadable

3-Second Test25

Within three seconds: Person on mountain. That's it. No clear product connection, no Zero Grid branding visible, no incentive decoded. Fails the

Behavioural Triggers35

Aspiration (wanderlust, adventure lifestyle) is present but unfocused. No scarcity, social proof, urgency, or FOMO. The lifestyle framing lacks a

CTA Strength5

No CTA visible. No 'Shop Now', 'Discover', 'Join', or button elements. The image is aesthetically immersive but functionally abandoned for a landing

Cognitive Load62

Visual composition is simple (one subject, expansive landscape), but cognitive dissonance is high—what is Zero Grid selling? Is this about

Emotional Resonance72

Strong emotional pull: solitude, contemplation, freedom, achievement. The image evokes introspection and belonging to something aspirational.

Brand Consistency15

No visible Zero Grid identity markers: no logo, color system, typography, or tagline. This could be any lifestyle brand. Zero Grid's brand language is

TOP FIXES

- Critical

Add a strategic text layer or overlay with Zero Grid logo, headline, and CTA—position at bottom-right or top-left per visual hierarchy rules
- Important

Integrate product into the frame or hero section: show the apparel the figure is wearing or product shot alongside the aspirational scene
- Nice to have

Include directional cues (arrow, gaze line, whitespace flow) that guide attention toward a conversion element—button, product, or next step

ATTENTION ZONES

- 1

Figure Silhouette
Central dark mass draws immediate eye due to contrast against golden-hour sky; creates human anchor but no clear next action
- 2

Golden Hour Sky Gradient
Warm tones and atmospheric perspective create emotional depth and visual softness; reinforces contemplative mood but disperses focus away from message
- 3

Mountain Range (Background)
Layered silhouettes create depth and scale; amplifies aspiration narrative but remains passive—does not guide toward conversion touchpoint

ATTENTION MAP

Zones based on AI visual analysis — not pixel-level eye tracking

INDUSTRY BENCHMARKS — FASHION & APPAREL

WHAT TOP CAMPAIGNS ARE DOING

<cite index="3-10,3-11">Top fashion houses in 2024-2025 are releasing campaigns that bring runway designs to life, with creative directors teaming up with pioneering photographers and film directors to create playful campaigns that highlight brand spirit.</cite> <cite index="7-3,7-6">The best campaigns thoughtfully evolve minimalism and convey powerful messages by blending style, setting, and storytelling to craft impactful narratives.</cite>

REAL-WORLD EXAMPLES

1

Calvin Klein

Jeremy Allen White Campaign (2024)

TECHNIQUE

<cite index="5-3,5-5">Seismic cultural moment leveraging celebrity paired with a series of equally compelling imagery across an ongoing partnership.</cite>

WHAT YOU CAN LEARN

Zero Grid's silhouette lacks the product visibility and star power that made CK's campaign a cultural touchstone—embed the apparel visibly and anchor to a recognizable identity.

2

Guess Jeans

Evan Mock & Alana Champion (2025)

TECHNIQUE

<cite index="3-18,3-19,3-20">Americana-driven narrative shot in California countryside with meaningful props (wooden shack, blue car, green pastures) that reinforce brand DNA.</cite>

WHAT YOU CAN LEARN

This creative prioritizes aspirational setting but lacks tangible brand elements; Guess used recognizable product placement and location specificity that anchored lifestyle to wearable reality.

3

Prada

Act Like Prada - Carey Mulligan (2025)

TECHNIQUE

<cite index="9-4,9-5,9-6">Multimedia rollout featuring multiple character personas, shot by photography legend Steven Meisel, explores plurality while showcasing best pieces from the collection.</cite>

WHAT YOU CAN LEARN

Prada weaponized character variety and product visibility to sustain engagement across campaign phases; Zero Grid's single silhouette offers no narrative variation or product story.

THE GAP

Top fashion campaigns anchor aspirational lifestyle imagery to explicit product visibility, celebrity/talent leverage, and multi-phase storytelling, whereas this creative relies on pure emotion without brand identity, product context, or conversion mechanics.